

Population Education Curriculum Fellowship

General Description: Population Connection, a national nonprofit organization working to educate the public about population and related environmental, economic and social issues, seeks candidates for a 6-month fellowship for its Population Education Program, July – December, 2022. This position will focus on developing and editing new and updated lesson plans for our websites and teacher workshops. In 2022, our primary project is on updating and enhancing our K-5 curriculum.

The Fellow will work as part of a dynamic team on other program activities as needed, including writing blogs and assisting with volunteer recruitment. Detailed information about the Population Education Program can be found at www.populationeducation.org.

Requirements: Applicants should have a demonstrated interest in environmental and human population issues and K-12 education, and strong writing skills. B.A. or B.S. required. Teaching experience preferred.

Compensation: $46,800 (Stipend of $1,800/pay period, before taxes) plus competitive benefits package.

Location: The Population Education Program team is based in Washington, DC and currently works a hybrid schedule (2 days in the office; 3 at home).

Application Instructions: Send resume and cover letter (specifying one of the two fellowships) to: jobs@popconnect.org.
